

WILL SPAIN TRY TO STAY OUT OF THE CONFLICT?

May Be Propaganda Like Italy's Talk of Delayed Invasion

(By the Associated Press.) Italy was told today that England probably will not be invaded until the British people are weakened by bombs and blockade.

Even as Italian troops were reported moving up to the 800-mile German-held continental coastline to join the Nazi blitzkrieg veterans for the projected assault, Virgilio Gayda, fascist editor, cautioned his countrymen not to expect to attack immediately.

Whether his article, which appeared in Il Giornale D'Italia, actually spoke the mind of Premier Mussolini or was intended merely to confuse the British as to prospects for an immediate assault was a matter of speculation.

Are the Italians Backing Out? Gayda nonetheless repeated what British military spokesmen and statesmen have long contended—that an invasion of the British Isles would not be a simple military advance.

That kind of lightning warfare which Germany demonstrated in Poland, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg and finally in France is not practical in Britain's case, said Gayda.

Instead, he wrote the tactics of attrition must be used—constant air attacks to demoralize the population and destroy island defenses; attacks on ships bringing supplies to England, and a strong submarine blockade and a weakening of empire defenses in the Mediterranean.

Ominous Signs in France On the other hand the belief that the blow might be struck at any moment was strengthened by reports from Vichy, France, that postal, telephone and telegraph communications had been suspended between German-occupied France and that part which is still free.

A plea which some observers took as an implication that Spain will try to stay out of the war was voiced in the Falangist newspaper Arriba of Madrid—a plea for help from the United States to put Spain back on her feet after her civil war.

German bombers continued to pick at the British Isles, but the fierceness of the recent attacks was somewhat abated.

Reports in Switzerland said Adolf Hitler agreed to Premier Mussolini's request that his Italians, seasoned in Ethiopia and Spain, be assigned a direct part in the momentarily expected blow.

Last Minute Preparations Reports from the continental storm centers pictured these as last minute preparations for simultaneous attack on England and her fortress rock, Gibraltar.

1—Spread movements of German troops west through France, masked by closing of rail communications to unoccupied France and all outlets but one to Switzerland.

2—Concentration of Spanish troops at La Linea, back door to Gibraltar.

3—Massing of Italian warplanes at Sardinia to join the Spanish in a possible drive to seize Gibraltar.

Rumania Will Drive Hard Bargain Rumania's Foreign Minister Iuliu Manollescu declared that his government would drive a hard bargain in negotiating the territorial demands of Bulgaria and Hungary at Germany's order.

MacKenzie Says: Sounds Like Horse-Sense

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Virgilio Gayda, authoritative fascist writer, today told Italians not to look for an immediate invasion of England.

Whether Signor Gayda may be speaking with tongue in cheek, this warning sounds like horse-sense. Hitler is an opportunist and will strike when the time seems right, but it wouldn't be at all surprising if an assault by sea were delayed for some time.

For that reason one would expect the Nazis to inaugurate wholesale bombings by a mighty fleet of airships before trying the invasion. However, it is impossible to predict with any degree of certainty when Hitler will start moving his troops, because he may regard the bombing to which he already has subjected England as considerably more effective than appears to the outside world from heavily censored dispatches. One can only say that there is no present indication that

Firemen Battle $1,000,000 Paint Factory Blaze

A $1,000,000 fire, touched off by a violent explosion, swept the block long automobile paint and grease manufacturing plant of the R. M. Hollingshead company at Camden. Many were injured and first reports said "two or three" workmen were missing. Here firemen are pouring water on the wreckage of a section of the plant, almost razed by the fire and later explosions which shook the building and caused the walls to collapse. (Associated Press Photo.)

PROPERTY LOSS IN CAMDEN FIRE IS $2,000,000

Two Dead, 7 Missing When Factory and 67 Homes are Destroyed

Camden, N. J., July 31 (AP)—Hose lines poured cooling water today on the fire-blackened ruins of a $1,000,000 factory, shattered by a series of terrific explosions which touched off the worst blaze in Camden's history.

Seven persons were listed as missing and more than 180, most of them firemen, were injured. Estimates of the damage ranged up to $2,000,000.

Five-hundred National Guardsmen patrolled the area to prevent looting.

Driven back by the blinding heat, firemen made slow progress in their search for victims.

One man, Raymond Harter, 40, died in a hospital last night a few hours after blasts ripped through the R. M. Hollingshead company's automotive paint and soap factory.

The body of William Merrigan, 49-year-old fireman, was found buried in debris.

Hollingshead said the company was working on an order for gun paint for the United States Navy but declared he saw "no possibility of sabotage."

Vice President R. M. Bagley expressed the opinion that heat exploded one of the many chemical mixtures in the plant.

Here is an unofficial tabulation of the dead and those missing:

The known dead: Raymond Harter, 38, Hollingshead chief inspector and general storage manager, burns of the entire body.

William Merrigan, 49, fireman. Died last night from heat exhaustion and heart disease.

Missing: Laura Jacobowski, 24, Hollingshead employee.

Mrs. Bida Babcock, 32, employee.

Mrs. Bessie Busa, 32, employee.

William P. Bennett, 64, plant engineer.

The factory is less than a mile from the Camden entrance to the Delaware river bridge and only two blocks from the main automobile artery leading from the span into south Jersey.

"MOONSHINER" INDUSTRY IS ON THE WAY OUT

Liquor Board Says Size as Well as Number of Stills Less

Harrisburg, July 31 (AP)—The illicit still which flourished in pre-repeal Pennsylvania, is declining year by year through increased control, liquor control board spokesmen report.

Clyde E. Smith, director of the bureau of licensing and enforcement, supplied a few figures today to show that not only the number, but the capacity of the stills is shrinking.

In 1937, for instance, the state seized 338 stills with an average capacity of 140 gallons. Last year, 238 stills were seized with an average capacity of 45 gallons.

One reason for the success in obliterating the "moonshiner" is the close cooperation of the state and federal governments in tracing what they term the "raw materials" of the trade—the ingredients.

"In case of any unusual sales," explained J. H. Reiter, the liquor board's public information editor, "we get busy."

There has been no appreciable increase in still operations since the new liquor tax went into effect July 1, but it was pointed out it is a little premature to reach any conclusion concerning this phase.

One of the biggest recent hauls was made in Franklin county—two stills of 100-gallon and 50-gallon capacity. U. S. Commissioner Shirley J. Zarger said it was the largest uncovered since the repeal of prohibition amendment.

CALLS MEETING OF REPUBLICAN CO. CHAIRMEN

Plans for Drive To Be Made at Hershey Next Tuesday

Harrisburg, July 31 (AP)—Pennsylvania republican leaders, reporting evidence of "new life and vitality in their party," will start a drive to register more republican voters, with a meeting of county chairmen and vice-chairmen at Hershey next Tuesday.

The call will be issued by the executive committee through State Chairman James P. Torrance. He announced after a committee meeting yesterday that he will manage the Pennsylvania campaign of presidential nominee Wendell L. Willkie and his running-mate, Senator Charles L. McNary.

Torrance added he is "working through" William H. Harman of Philadelphia, organizer of the Willkie-for-President clubs in Pennsylvania.

Still indefinite is the place and date for beginning the campaign for the November elections. Hoping to have Willkie or McNary, or both, make an appearance here, the state chairman announced National Chairman Joseph Martin will come to Pennsylvania soon, and "probably" will ask Governor James to aid in the pre-election work.

"Evidence of new life and vitality in the party as the result of the nomination of Willkie and McNary was the dominant note heard in the meeting," Torrance said in a statement.

"The state committee welcomes in this fight to preserve America all voters—republicans, democrats, and independents."

HIGHER BONDED INDEBTEDNESS IS APPROVED

Littlestown Residents Vote 124 to 21 on Tuesday

By a vote of 124 to 21, Littlestown residents approved at a special election on Tuesday an increase in the bonded indebtedness of the borough.

The ballots cast according to wards were:

First Ward	For	Against
Second Ward	59	15

The purpose of the election, as explained by members of the Littlestown council, was to receive authority to place the present indebtedness on a bond issue at a lower rate of interest. Since the vote was in favor of the bonded increase, councilmen pointed out that Littlestown will save from $830 to $1,000 annually in interest.

The amount of the last assessed valuation of taxable property in Littlestown is $895,505. The total amount of the bonded indebtedness of the borough would be the amount to cover the present debt to the extent of $35,000.

It has been explained that the purpose of increasing the bonded indebtedness is to pay off interest bearing evidences of indebtedness by the borough for refunding debts incurred by the corporate authorities thereof to the amount or amounts exceeding two per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in the borough.

The vote on Tuesday had no connection with the contemplated sewer system project in Littlestown.

The official count of the votes will be conducted at the court house here on Thursday morning.

It Is "Cooler" With Mercury at 90 Today

The man on the street today expressed the feeble opinion that it was not as hot as yesterday. And strangely enough he was right.

The mercury stood at the 90-degree mark at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the thermometer of Dr. Henry Stewart, official weather observer. On Thursday the reading was 94.

Scattered showers brought a respite from the intense heat throughout Pennsylvania and the nation but forecasters said there was no sign of general relief from the two-week-old heat wave.

In the United States the death toll attributed to the heat rose to 858, including 32 Pennsylvanians.

EXPECT LARGE STATE SUPPLY OF SEED WHEAT

Fields Produce Small Grains and Light Heads

Harrisburg, July 31 (AP)—State inspections for seed wheat have disclosed that fields heavy in straw and apparently yielding well have produced small grains and light heads.

The department of Agriculture, however, said it had applications for inspection and certification of approximately 2,700 acres of winter wheat for seed purposes, and this acreage doubtless would "make available a larger supply of seed wheat for Pennsylvania farmers than in previous years."

The harvest season is a week to ten days later this year than in 1939, and many fields were not ready for inspection until this week. The bulk of inspection, though, has been completed, the department said.

Secretary John H. Light attributed the poorly-filled heads to weather conditions this spring. The cool and moist days were favorable to certain diseases, which caused some of the losses.

"A close examination of most of these fields will reveal a number of dead heads," Light said. "Most of these heads are infected with the scab. However, smut is also taking a fairly heavy toll of the crop this year. It is also generally thought that heavy rains during the blossoming period interfered somewhat with pollination, and resulted in many poorly-filled heads."

The department's inspectors rejected some fields because of disease, noxious weeds such as garlic, thistle and for varietal mixtures.

Laboratory tests of samples will be completed this week or next, said the department, and the list of growers of certified wheat and winter barley will be available then.

Barley Below Average

The certified winter barley crop is considerably below average, Light said. "Many heads were not filled well, and prospects indicate a lower average yield per acre will be harvested."

Crops that do not show an analysis of 99 per cent purity, or a germination of 90 per cent or more will be rejected, as seed, Light said, on the theory that "too many other production of a crop of grain with hazards confront a farmer in the out taking the additional chance on planting poor seed."

Local Enforcement

It's up to the local communities to enforce the law against Canada thistle and chicory, the department explains from under an avalanche of complaints flowing in.

The law, the department points out, "specifically provides that anyone who desires protection and who is 'aggrieved or about to be injured,' by the growth of Canada thistle or chicory, must inform by written notice any constable or supervisor of the township or district in which the weeds may be growing."

"It is the duty of the local officer thus notified to give five days' notice in writing to the owner of the land involved. If the owner refuses to cut the Canada thistle or chicory, the official may hire some one to do the work and charge the costs to the owner. If the constable or supervisor neglects to perform his duties as prescribed by the law, he is liable to a fine of ten dollars."

Sports Roundup

By BILL WHITE

New York, July 31 (AP).—Incidental intelligence: Looks like Freddie Smith, Bimelech's regular pilot, is out and that Don Meade will have the leg up on Bimby in the Travers at Saratoga and the American derby at Washington park. That bonus check fat Freddie Fitzsimmons got from the Dodger front office for winning No. 202 was for 500 smackeroos. A wealthy and influential Pittsburgh family is back of the move to bring the Conn-Louis fight to the Smoky City. Auburn's first football coach, Dr. George Petrie is now the grad school's dean. Coaches of three of last year's bowl teams—Bobby Dodd, of Georgia Tech; Frank Leahy, of Boston college, and Red Dawson, of Tulane—give that Daytona Beach coaching school a triple threat faculty. The bookies weren't surprised at the slim play at Saratoga the first two days. They recall that during the first weeks in past years they were lucky to get a half dozen bets on a race. Saratoga means August to the racing crowd.

From the heart of America—Frank Goodman, of the K.C. Star, president of the Ban Johnson circuit, is through doing his stuff in ceremonies at Ban Johnson baseball games. Reason: At Coffeyville, Kansas, Frank threw the first pitch to Coffeyville's mayor—and banged Hizzoner smack in the shin.

Digging the divots: Al Krueger, the golf pro, pitches a couple of night games a week for a Wisconsin outfit. Johnny Bulla flies his own plane to golf tournaments. Why doesn't the Ryder cup team play the ten best Simon Pures in a charity match prior to the amateur championship in Sept? Extremes: Ben Hogan the leading money winner weighs 130 and Ed Oliver, the St. Paul open winner, tips the scales at 230. When Ralph Kennedy of New York played the Frederickton, N. B., golf course a couple of days ago, it was the 2-038th he has toured in nine countries.

Colorado papers can copy—Nick Stubler, Colorado Ags' new frosh grid coach, and Earl (Dutch) Clark, the only state football player the Denver Post ever called "great"—until Whizzer White came along—are the only two Central high (Pueblo) athletes ever too captain their football squads two successive years. Dutch did it in 1924-25 and Stubler, last year's Santa Clara ace, came along 10 years later.

Michigan opponents are hereby warned to duck when Howard Meahaffey, the Wolverine's blocking back gets going this fall. He's poison, they say. Crosley field can't be enlarged any for this year's world series. They used up all the available space last year. First book odds on the Conn-Pastor fight make beautiful Bill the favorite at 1-2. Any day now you can expect to hear Hymie Caplin, manager of Herbit Katz, holler for a shot at Joe Louis now that his boy caught Bob Pastor off balance and sat him down in training camp Tuesday.

Idaville In Second Place in Loop Race

Idaville's baseball team, now in second place in the second half race of the Adams-Cumberland county loop, will play the Pine Grove C.C.C. team on the latter's field this evening. On Friday Churchtown will play at Idaville.

The second half standing follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Newville	12	2	.851
Idaville	10	4	.714
Boiling Springs	8	6	.571
Plainfield	7	6	.538
Churchtown	7	7	.500
C.C.C.	5	8	.385
Friendship	4	9	.308

British Blockade From Arctic to North Africa

London, July 31 (AP).—Britain today ordered a blockade extending from the Arctic to northern Africa, effective at midnight tonight, an order in council giving effect to the policy announced in commons Tuesday by Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare.

Softball Loop Fixes Playoffs

At a meeting of managers of the Community softball league Tuesday evening it was decided to play all postponed games regardless of whether or not they will determine what teams will participate in the championship playoffs.

Dates were fixed for the four postponed games and it was decided that if no further postponements are necessary the championship playoffs will start Monday evening, August 12. All championship games will be played on the college field.

A three-game series will be played between the first and third place teams and a similar series between the second and fourth place teams with the two winners battling it out for the title in a final three-game engagement. The semi-final series will alternate, with the first set of teams playing the opening game and the other teams meeting the next evening and continuing in that manner until the finalists are determined.

George Burgner was named as the umpire-in-chief for the title games. He will be assisted by one or more umpires to be selected later.

It was decided that collections will be taken during the title-deciding series only.

Had Your VITAMINS Today?

Yes you have—unless you have been fasting. Vitamins lurk in all that we eat; in much that we drink.

But whether you've had sufficient vitamins is quite another matter—a matter that only your doctor can determine. For doctors have found that many persons—nursing mothers and growing children, especially—need move vitamins that the regular diet supplies. In such cases they will often prescribe certain of the newer food concentrates.

If you—or a member of your family—is lacking in energy and vitality—consult a capable doctor—and bring his prescription to this Reliable drug store to be filled.

Harrisburg Tries Again For Sunday Movies

Harrisburg, July 31 (AP).—Another effort to bring Sunday movies to Pennsylvania's capital started today.

Theatre managers announced they would circulate petitions to have the question placed on the ballots in the November election. The five-year interim required by law has passed since Sunday movies were rejected, 19,710 to 9,120.

C. Floyd Hopkins, chairman of the theatre committee, said the question "is one that the community must decide for itself. We do, however, recognize enough of a demand for Sunday entertainment to justify our taking the initiative" in preparing and circulating the petitions.

Today's Talk
—By George Matthew Adams—
THE LEISURE FOR MATURING
IN Paul Valery's "Variety," second series, are many stimulating and thought stirring essays. In the one on Spiritual Polity he says: "We have lost the leisure for maturing and, if we look within ourselves, we artists no longer find that other virtue of the ancient creators of beauty—the determination to endure."
This writer—and he is a Frenchman—thinks the reason for the fact that so many people look upon futility as one of the most outstanding features of today, is that we have too much to detract us from the living, eternal values embodied in the spiritual. Genius has worked overtime to give to man comfort and entertainment—and he has grown soft, with too many anxieties and too many fears.
A King, or Dictator, a President, or Premier is able to deliver his actual voice to his hearers, at the very moment of delivery, no matter in what part of the world they may be. The stride between the Covered Wagon and the Stratoliner has been too rapid a one for consumption. The Leisure of Maturing has been too brief.
Hardship and Sacrifice are the two greatest subjects to be learned and experienced in the great College of Life. Without them no education is complete.
I recall a boyhood hymn that we often sung in my father's church. It was called "Take Time To Be Holy." Too much time has been consumed in the making of mere money, in the search for anemic pleasure, and in the worship of false gods. Character cannot mature over night.
A re-casting of the world mind is going on. What the future is to be no man can safely or accurately predict. It will be a greatly changed world, and it is our hope and prayer that it may be a better one than the one in which war has been prescribed as a remedy for its ills, and its recovery. Who ever heard of a patient being cured with poison?
All time is brief—from the second to the century. To all of us, and to all who follow us, however, leisure for maturing will be afforded. May it be one of spiritual triumph—of spiritual preparation! Through it, alone, can we endure.
Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "What Happens to Others."

JUST FOLKS

FATHER
A father is a fellow with a lot of curious ways. The best that's said about him is the monthly bills he pays.
But his notions are old-fashioned, as so frequently he's told.
And (he'll prove it by the label) all his suits are five years old.
The mother and the daughters often smile when he's about.
He's awkward and he's dowdy, but he's such a good old scout!
He has no idea of color or of fashions up-to-date. His trouser knees are baggy and his neckties never straight.
A father is the fellow who needs watching day by day. If the family didn't warn him he'd get lost upon the way.
He would always be in trouble, as they frequently allow
If his loved ones didn't tell what to do and when and how.
A father doesn't really know what's going on at all. It's a different world entirely from the one that he'll recall.
He thinks twelve o'clock is late enough for children to be out.
But somehow they seem to love him, for he's such a good old scout.

The Literary Guidepost
By John Selby
"TOO DEAR FOR MY POSSESSING," by Pamela Hansford Johnson (Carriek & Evans: $2.50).
THERE is a good deal to be said for a novelist who can, as Pamela Hansford Johnson has done in "Too Dear For My Possessing," sustain a reader's belief in a hopeless love through 383 pages of English prose. Looking forward from the beginning it is evident that Miss Johnson has assembled a little group of very manageable characters who may be expected to work prodigies. Looking backward from the end, it is equally evident that what has done the trick is not, after all, the characters but rather the superb gift she has for making places and things real.
For this reader never quite believed in the curious love of Claud for Cecil per se; what happened was that these two, along with assorted subsidiary characters, became actual through their life in numerous well-realized backgrounds, so that in the end he took Miss Johnson's word for the love, and found the experience worth his while.
Claud and Cecil met when Claud was living in Bruges with his literary father and his father's magnificently blowsy mistress. Cecil's father and Claud's mother were maintaining a relationship which might have been destined for marriage, and the mother had come to Belgium to see her boy. Whereupon the two elders went to a concert at the Casino, and the two children amused themselves dancing solemnly in the ballroom. Claud's contacts with Cecil were always more or less like that—he was in one world, she in another, and their orbits overlapped seldom.
But Claud's contacts with the life of Belgium, of France and of England were always actual. Miss Johnson can, and does, sail Claud down a Belgian canal so expertly that the slap of the waves and the sting of the sudden sharp squall of rain are disturbingly actual. When she rings the bells of Bruges, you can distinguish between the cracked bells and the ones in good repair. And for the most part the personal relations of the characters are aptly reproduced, those between Claud and his father and between the boy and the mistress who became his step-mother—and something more.
This is just another way of saying that once a writer has made a book, it is a free agent in the world, and must impress every reader according to his lights. This reader liked "Too Dear For My Possessing" for reasons Miss Johnson might never suspect.

Casual Slaughters
—BY VIRGINIA HANSON—
YESTERDAY: Gerald questions Kay minutely about Sandra's murder, asking if anything in the room has been touched. She thinks not. She moves over to the Pennants and goes with Julia to see Jeff.

Chapter 32
The Whole Truth
THE man on guard closed the door and stayed outside the barred room. He may have been listening, but I don't think Julia thought of that, or would have cared if she had. She went straight to Jeff and put both her hands in his.
"We'll get you out of this," she said in the voice you would use to a frightened child. "It isn't that Dan thinks you did it; he just has to take some action. It's the second murder and they haven't got anywhere with the first, yet."
"It's worse than that," he said through stiff lips. "They found a blood-stained towel in my laundry hamper. Dan asked me to explain it, but how could I? I don't know how it got there."
Julia's eyes blazed. "Someone's trying to frame you. Any idea who?"
"Don't you suppose I'd tell if I knew?" he asked wearily. "Who gave her that black eye? I didn't."
She drew a deep breath, and her face warmed almost to a smile.
"I knew you didn't," she said. I looked away from them, because it wasn't decent to see their defenseless eyes. But I had learned something. It was the first time I had seen Jeff with the barriers down.
They stayed down only an instant. Suddenly he freed his hands from hers and backed away, fairly bristling with barbed-wire defenses. I don't think it was anything she said or did; it was just reaction from that moment of forgetfulness.
"How would it be," Julia began bravely, "if we sat down and talked it over? Maybe we could think of something—"
"There's no place to sit except one chair and the bed," he said churlishly. "And there's nothing to talk over. If you've come here to pump me you can get out." He glanced at Julia's hurt, bewildered eyes and seemed to grow angrier. He was like a man fighting his own shadow.
"You've probably heard," he went on, with a cold look at me, "that my wife was afraid to occupy a room with me. You can believe that or not, just as you please. It's a matter of indifference to me. I married her. I don't know who killed her. I don't know who killed Ivan. And you can go back and tell Dan that's all you found out."
Julia stamped her foot.
"I did not come here to find out things for Dan," she stormed. "I came here to help you, but I don't know why I bothered. I've already lied myself blind, and so has Kay—"
She stopped, appalled at what she had said.
"Then you'd better tell the truth from now on," he said icily. "When I need lies told for me I'll let you know."
He went to the door and opened it, held it until we had passed through.
Head high, Julia marched down the corridor and out of the hospital, but as soon as we were in the car she gave way to a storm of tears. I took the wheel and drove aimlessly for a while, waiting for her to get control of herself.
Cold Fury
"If only Adam were here," I said finally, out of the depths of my thoughts. Julia, he was right. Jeff was right. We'd better tell your father the truth."
"Oh, no, Kay, you don't mean that—not with Dan already thinking Jeff killed her!"
"But the only way we can do anything to help Jeff if he isn't the murderer is to find out who is. And how can we expect to arrive at the truth until we all pool our knowledge?"
"But don't you see—all we've withheld is just what will make it look blacker for Jeff. And I know he didn't do it."
"Oh no, that isn't all. How about Mimi—you said it was her car that night at the barge. We haven't told that."
"I never said that," she said quickly, desperately. "You're imagining things."
So that was the way of it. I fell silent, thinking, until we drew up once more at the colonel's quarters. Then, before I got out, I gave her my considered opinion.
"I'm sorry, Julia. If Adam were here I'd go to him with it. Since he isn't it will have to be your father."
"You mean—you're going to tell him everything?"
She looked stunned, as if her last friend had deserted her, and I had to steel myself against sympathy.
"Everything," I said firmly. "It's different now. Sandra's death—and the way she was killed—There's no use talking, Julia, someone around here isn't human. And every lie we tell is in that creature's service. I'm not

GROWERS FROM STATE INSPECT ADAMS ORCHARD
Two-Day Tour Ends In York County Today
About 250 persons took part in the annual summer tour of the Pennsylvania State Horticultural Association that opened in Adams county on Tuesday and was concluded in York county this afternoon.
The tour in this county started at the Flying Hill farm managed by Frederic E. Griest, where contour planting was explained by A. E. Cooper, extension agronomist from State College.
After lunching at the Arendtsville Union park, the tour proceeded to the Blue Ribbon orchard managed by Glenn Slaybaugh. A discussion of the experiments on the control of leaf spot on sour cherries was one of the topics of Harold Miller, plant pathologist. H. N. Worthly, research entomologist, also discussed some of the work in progress.
At the Charles F. Raffensperger orchards at Arendtsville, the visitors were guided by C. O. Dunbar, research pomologist, who told of methods of maintaining profitable production in the peach orchard.
The final orchard visited by the growers was that of Henry Baugher at Aspers. Mr. Baugher is interested in the control of orchard pests and has provided a block of trees for experimental work. The various treatments and tests on the trees were described by H. M. Steiner research entomologist, and H. W. Thurston, plant pathologist.

Supper was served at the Arendtsville park at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon by the fruit growers' and canners' organizations of the county.
In the evening there was a meeting of the state horticultural association at the park. Several growers gave talks and the York Springs high school band entertained.
The tour in Adams county was arranged by a committee headed by Harvey B. Raffensperger, who also is president of the county's horticultural society.
John Runk, of Huntington, president of the state association, took part in the tour.

Among the orchards visited in York county today were those of E. F. Kaufman and son at Stony Brook; Yoe Orchard company near Dallastown; H. W. Anderson, Stewartstown, and R. C. Shaw, also of Stewartstown.

• "Good Heavens!" He stared at me across the desk.
Blacker For Jeff
"Maybe I shouldn't have told you, but I thought it would make you understand better. It's quite true," I assured him.
"I hope you're mistaken," he said simply. "Jeff will almost certainly stand trial for murder."
"You mean you think he's guilty?"
He opened his hands as if to show his helplessness.
"It isn't a matter of what I think. I'm not all-powerful. I can't obstruct justice by shielding my friends. Civilian authority can't simply be flouted—"
"Julia said—" I began.
"I know. Julia thinks all I have to do is wave a hand. But these things are ticklish. Civilian authorities were called in about those cars and about Ivan's murder. He was a civilian. So was Sandra, though in one sense she comes under my jurisdiction. But murder is different. It's a military crime, but it's also a civil crime. Even if Jeff were tried by court-martial he could still be subject to civil trial. And I doubt if I could successfully oppose the arrest for murder of any of my personnel. Except by the one step I have taken."
"You mean—by arresting Jeff yourself? Oh, but why didn't you explain all that to Julia? It would make her feel so much better. She thinks you're convinced of Jeff's guilt—"
I saw his face then, and my words trailed off.
"Jeff has been like a son to me," he said slowly, after a little pause. "Don't you think I'd rather believe him innocent? But what am I to think? First Ivan, now Sandra. There's only one common factor, and it's Jeff. Then there's that blood-stained towel—"

"But don't you think that was too stupid to be true?"
"Murderers aren't all as clever as the ones in books," he said dryly. "And he had obviously handled Sandra—"
"He told us he didn't give Sandra that black eye."
"Would you expect him to admit it? Then the chaplain—he has rooms next to theirs at the club—told me reluctantly this morning that he heard them quarreling for about an hour, after they got home from the reception. He said he couldn't hear any words, but they both sounded angry. And Jeff didn't deny it. He just refused to say what the quarrel was about."
"It may have been merely because she had appeared in public looking like that. But the fact that they quarreled doesn't necessarily mean that he killed her, does it?"
Colonel Pennant looked deeply troubled.
"I don't want to think the boy is guilty," he said. "But if he isn't, who is?"

Dehoff-Smith

Miss Dorothy C. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Smith, Hanover, and Clarence H. Dehoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dehoff, Littlestown, were married Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the rectory of St. John's Catholic church, Westminster, Maryland, by the Rev. Father McCourt.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rickrode.

The bride was attired in blue with corresponding accessories, and wore a corsage of mixed flowers. The matron of honor also wore a corsage of mixed flowers.

Both the bride and bridegroom are employed at the Zinn Pie Bakery, Hanover.

They will reside for the present at the home of the bride's parents.

FASTER AT 70 THAN 17

San Antonio, Texas (AP)—Bill Meadows, 70, called "the father of Texas polo," rode a horse from Kerrville to San Antonio—70 miles—in 11 1/2 hours to better his own time of 13 hours set 53 years ago. He made the ride, to publicize a rodeo, on a nine-gaited stallion.

MacKenzie Says

Bad Any Way You Look

Whatever way you look at it, the Anglo-axis war is headed for even greater tragedy than has yet been dealt out to unhappy Europe.

First has to be determined whether Herr Hitler can annihilate the English with his blitzkrieg—and this promises to provide one of the bloodiest battles in history, if he carries out his full program of invasion.

If he isn't able to knock Britain out in the immediate future by such an assault, the conflict will settle into a war of attrition. That will be nasty.

May Starve Each Other

Each side will try to starve the other into submission by blockade. Apart from the suffering produced by hunger this means economic chaos for the whole continent.

Both sides will increase the intensity of their bombings—winter weather permitting—which means that the skies will continue to drench civilians with horrible death.

Widespread reports have it that the Germans and Italians are ready to launch the big assault on England. We are justified in assuming from all the facts at hand that they are indeed prepared, but we must await the sailing of the armada before we shall know that the invasion is a certainty. There is so much propaganda about these days that we have to depend a good deal on our eyes for the truth.

If the war settles into one of attrition, Britain would seem to have the advantage in the winter months, because her blockade depends on warships while the nazis must rely mainly on the air, and flying conditions will be bad.

A. T. & T. Seeks to Protect Communications System

New York, July 30 (AP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph company and its subsidiaries have placed the nation's telephone communications network on a virtual war-time footing within the past six weeks.

Acting at the suggestion of national defense officials, precautions have been taken to protect vital operating centers, and added facilities are being set up to meet growing demands of preparedness activities.

An official of the A. T. & T.—explaining that the 24 operating companies of the Bell system have wide discretion in meeting local problems—said today that these steps have been taken since a "defense" meeting of the company executives in June.

Extra guards have been posted at vital operating points. In a western district, guards were chosen from ex-marines who had been approved by the FBI.

Admission of visitors and unauthorized employees to telephone plants has been sharply restricted. Photographing of plants and equipment has been forbidden.

Emergency power plant installations have been augmented, to insure unbroken operation.

Switchboards Guarded by Men In offices where formerly only women employees worked, work schedules have been altered to insure the presence of men 24 hours a day. These men, in addition to their routine duties are charged with the responsibility of insuring that no unauthorized person enters the building. Some are armed.

School Principals Warned Against Hitler and Stalin

State College, Pa., July 31 (AP)—Our systems of government and schools, and our methods of life, are being undermined "partly through the war, but more fundamentally because of the rise of totalitarian states," says Dr. James G. McDonald, president of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts.

He told the 18th annual conference of Pennsylvania school principals and superintendents "the only difference between Hitler and Stalin is that Hitler is much more successful in cloaking his revolutionary designs and in achieving his European and world domination."

Steeplejack Corcoran Slid to Safety

Meadville, Pa., July 31 (AP)—When a 45-foot flagpole started to give way yesterday, steeplejack John Corcoran from Boston, Massachusetts, slid to the ground as quick as greased lightning—landing just before the pole collapsed across the Crawford county courthouse lawn.

Gone was the money he would have earned from painting it, but the veteran Corcoran didn't care. He was proud of that death-defying slide.

"A greenhorn would be bouncin' yet," he boasted.

HOT TIPS FOR WORLD'S FAIR TRIPS

BY CHOLLY LASHER

I SET OUT to learn why so many folks are saying, "Hotel Pennsylvania is the place in New York for World's Fair visitors." Here's the glad news...

This great 2200-room hotel is top in location. A passageway to Pennsylvania Station saves taxi fares and confusion. And special electric trains zip you to the Fair in 10 minutes for 10 cents. Broadway's one block away!

Next, I learned that you folks get a single room with private bath for $3.50. Take your wife and it's only $5.00. Bring the children, and you get a "family" room at surprisingly low rates. Better yet, on the $10/Week-end

DELEGATES SIGN "ACT OF HAVANA" AND ADJOURNS

Hull Believes American Rep. Strengthened by New Bond

Havana, July 31 (AP)—The 21 American republics formally presented a united front today against political and economic dangers from other continents in a three-point program which Secretary of State Hull regarded with deep satisfaction despite last-minute reservations by eight nations.

The Havana conference, after setting up new machinery to bolster the solidarity of the western hemisphere, concluded last night with formal signature of documents amid flurries of cheers.

All the delegates signed the "Act of Havana" and supplementary agreements, although the Argentine delegation—which had argued against anticipating need of action concerning European colonies in the new world—led seven other nations in a succession of reservations.

Governments Must Ratify

The delegates of Argentina, Chile, Columbia, Uruguay and Venezuela specified that the agreements be ratified by their governments before participation. Mexico, Bolivia and Peru made reservations as to minor points.

The Program consists of:

1. The Act of Havana declaring all the republics opposed to transfer to other non-American nations or attempt to transfer or acquire interest in European possessions in this hemisphere.

2. Inter-American co-operation, through consultation and mutual exchange of information, to combat "fifth columnists" or other subversive elements.

3. Mutual effort to settle American economic problems, including market dislocations resulting from the European war, and "economic defense" against encroachment of European barter systems.

The Act of Havana provides for joint administration of any foreign possession threatened by a non-American nation, but also recognizes the right of any American republic to act singly or jointly in emergency situations.

Secretary Hull Applauded

Secretary Hull, who was applauded when he led the parade of signatories, issued a statement reviewing the conference as he embarked last night with other members of the United States delegation for Miami.

The American republics, he said, "have demonstrated to the world their unalterable determination to preserve and strengthen the spirit and the system of continental unity and solidarity. They thus have cleared the decks for effective action whenever such action may become necessary."

Hull made no specific mention of Argentina's hesitant attitude but said that "differences of view as at first appeared to exist were reconciled."

It Costs Real Money To Park in Pittston

Pittston, Pa., July 31 (AP)—The overtime parking charge against Israel Eisner, of Scranton, added up today to a total of $50 fine and $32.50 cost.

Alderman Michael A. Grace assessed the fine and said Eisner ignored summons to appear for a hearing. Most of the costs, he added, would go to cover expenses of sending a constable to locate Eisner.

Skull-and-Crossbones For Jaywalkers

Louisville, Ky., July 31 (AP)—Traffic police here have started handing out "tickets" to jaywalkers. They are black cards, bearing skull-and-crossbones and the inscription: "You made it this time. Next time you may not be so lucky. ... Think before you walk."

Walk to Willkie

Alfred E. Smith struck this warm weather pose in his New York office as he announced he would support G.O.P. nominee Wendell Willkie for president.

Al Smith Declares For Wendell L. Willkie

New York, July 30 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith, the democratic presidential candidate a dozen years ago who took his first famous walk out of his party's convention in 1936, declared himself today for Wendell L. Willkie, the republican standard-bearer.

In a formal statement, the former governor of New York declared that "in my opinion, the recent so-called democratic convention in Chicago sounded the death knell of the democratic party."

As a result, he said, he and "millions of other genuine democrats throughout the United States will continue to protect and defend true democratic principles and will in no way willingly or silently tolerate any foreign bolls, call them new dealers or what not."

"Life-Long Democrat" "In the forthcoming we will march under the banner of Wendell L. Willkie, a life-long democrat." He added that the "thing to do is to defeat the democratic party this year and get rid of the fellows who turned in into the new deal party."

STATES ANTI-AIR REGIMENT IS "READY TO GO"

213th Coast Artillery Would Go First If Congress Approves

Allentown, Pa., July 31 (AP)—Pennsylvania's crack anti-aircraft regiment, only unit in the state included in Army plans for active National Guard training, is "ready to go" if congress approves pending legislation, its commander says.

In Washington yesterday, General George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, told the senate military committee that the War Department planned to call four divisions and 23 smaller units of the National Guard into active work if the legislation is approved.

Would Train at Virginia Beach Included in the list is the 213th Coast Artillery of eastern Pennsylvania. It would train at Virginia Beach, Va.

Learning of the prospective call to duty, Colonel Charles C. Curtis, of Allentown, commander of the 213th, said:

"Our men are ready to go. If the President sees fit to call us into active service we hope to be able to again acquit ourselves in a manner that will be in keeping with the traditions of this regiment."

"This is what we have been training for since we were organized into an anti-aircraft regiment in 1922."

The 213th's roster lists 1150 men and 47 officers with 37 vacancies. Eleven have been recommended for appointment as officers. The regiment has its full complement of three-inch anti-aircraft cannon, 12 guns and 12 prime movers to tow them. It still lacks a number of 37 millimeter guns, searchlights, sound locators and 50 calibre machine guns.

Units of the regiment are located at Allentown, Reading, Bethlehem, Eason, Lancaster, Lebanon and Pottsville.

Harrisburg Fire Chief Goes to Camden Fire

Camden, N. J., July 31 (AP)—A red car came clanging up to the scene of the Hollingshead paint plant fire early today and out stepped Earl W. Swartz, Harrisburg, Pa., fire chief and two assistants. Swartz said that when he heard reports of the fire he decided he ought to drive here to offer assistance.

LIGHTNING LIFTS TABLECLOTH

Cataqua, Pa., July 31 (AP)—During a thunderstorm lightning entered the home of Ralph C. Brown and ripped the tablecloth from the dinner table as the family was eating. No one was hurt. The cloth was burned only slightly.

Have you seen this Chart at Gulf Stations?

GULF GASOLINES!

THIS CHART, we hope, will give you a better picture than could a thousand words of the recent amazing improvement in Gulf gasolines. It is based on a scientific test of gasoline quality today—a test that is used by many of our competitors, as well as by ourselves. The chart shows the fair comparative measure of step-up in both GOOD GULF and GULF NO-NOX... a step-up which is no intangible "engineering triumph" but one which may be enjoyed by you... in your car!

Good Gulf is now boosted to its all-time high... will perform in your motor second to no regular-priced fuel. Gulf No-Nox is now (as always) truly superior to all regular motor fuels. It is, even more than formerly, knockproof under all normal driving conditions.
